Reporters Of Radio Station 'Mir' Medjugorje Continually Invite Pilgrims Who Come To Medjugorje To Witness About Their Apparitions.

Journalists of radio station "Mir" Medjugorje continually invite pilgrims who come to Medjugorje to witness about their apparitions. Here, we may bring some of those experiences.

Davor Terzic, musician and composer from Rovinj came with his better half Vesna to Medjugorje. They were in Medjugorje hotel. Davor is very much present at Croatian music scene and he is regularly participating at each festival of spiritual music. "We visited other Croatian shrines like Marija Bistrica and Vepric, and here we are in Medjugorje, for 7th, eighth time. We try to have a little bit time for ourselves each year. Our work is related to music, we make our living from that. We come here to thank God for everything he has given us in the previous year. Here's where we feel fulfilled."

The Organisation "I hear, I believe, I see" from Zagreb has organized study trip and pilgrimage for younger people and disabled scholars. While they were in Medjugorje they visited prayer places and participated in the evening prayer programme.

The blind student from Prelog, Martina Bilic, announced that best challenge for her was to climb Apparition Hill. "This was always stunning experience for me, it is physical effort, but one can feel non secular peace and sacrifice that has purpose."

Andrea Bianco, 41 years old pilgrim from Bolzano, little town on the north of Italy, shared his familiarity with us. As a sophomore student he was in a significant automobile accident and lost his sight on that occasion. He suspects that he survived thanks to God's prudence. He is married and has 4 children. He is making rosary beads along with his wife and gives those to pilgrims, but he is also organising pilgrimages to Medjugorje. "My young days were like of the average young person at that time. I had it all, girl, cash, I was studying. I didn't fret about spirituality too much. It was all about entertainment. All of a sudden, my life was modified over the night. One day, I was on my way back home, after having a field expedition with my squeeze, I needed to overtake a truck that hit us and threw us to a tree on the other side. My girl was fine, but I was severely hurt . I was taken by helicopter to the surgery in Bolzano. It was Holy Thursday, and they didn't have enough staff. I was sent to the hospice in Verona and I had surgery there. My doctor was younger, new doctor who had lost his brother in a car accident too. He did the surgery and I was in coma for twenty days. I had one hematoma that was pressing my eye nerves and that is how I lost my sight." What followed was the period of recovery when he went from hospital to hospital. It was in that time that he sore urge to go to sacrament of reconciliation. Shortly after he was given the sacrament of Holy Confirmation he had not received before. 3 years thereafter he and his fiance Lara got married. He said how he was listening stories about Medjugorje for years that were both negative and positive. He came on his first pilgrimage in 1998, and fruits of that pilgrimage followed after. "This is where we will be able to feel heaven, enormous grace from our Heavenly Mother. We are coming home renewed, different and we are prepared to return to this place of grace", said Andrea who comes constantly to Medjugorje twice a year since that point. Fr. Loky Flanagan, Irish missionary in Malawi, Africa, shared his experience as well . He was introduced to Medjugorje through charity organisation "Mary's Meals" that is fruits of Medjugorje and feeds every day around 400,000 children in Africa. He came to Medjugorje in 2003, and participated at the retreat for clergymen and discovered that a superb non secular experience. "Medjugorje helped me to have religion and trust in The Lord God, it inspires me to keep on working as a clergyman. I have more peace. Meeting folk and confessions help me a lot. I wouldn't say I Am consistently concerned in the events in Medjugorje, but I do have a book with Our Lady's messages", said Fr. Loky who plans to come to Medjugorje next year as well , writes tagza.com.
