Take a Detour To Lo de Marcos And Deep Sea Fish

Lo de Marcos Mexico, A Growing Town for Tourists and Retirees

Part of Riviera Nayarit, Lo De Marcos is a lethargic fishing place with a peaceful extended beach and a countryside ambience. Notorious among surfers, rich Mexican families, and international tourists, the Mexican place brags of picturesque scenery. Lo De Marcos is refreshingly appealing and tranquil. On normal days, the place is almost empty of tourists. On weekends and holidays, Lo De Marcos swarms with people from local and international. This makes the lethargic fishing place a bustling place like Sayulita. But it reverts back to stillness when tourist population thins.

The community

Lo De Marcos, which has a population of more or less 3,000, is one of the most genuinely Mexican places. The cobblestone avenues are lined with homes and shops, and the people are active making a living as fishermen and workers in restaurants, {shops|stores}, and other tourist and tour businesses. Some trade traditional Mexican products on the streets. Lo De Marcos kids are joyful souls. They can be found playing outside their homes or frolicking at the Lo De Marcos beach.

Lo De Marcos population is very traditional. It lends itself to cultural immersion, so every gues and second/retirement home owner can experience the real Mexican ethnicity and be one of the population. The beachside part serves as a direct opposite to the busyness of city lifestyle.

Lo De Marcos beach, the tourist attraction

If there is a thing that people always return to, it would absolutely be the Lo De Marcos beach. The beach is amazingly exotic, with trees lining the whitish shore. On weekends and holidays, families are combined together under umbrellas, experiencing the scenery, the sun, and the breeze.

The water is tranquil and pristine and ideal for a day-long of swimming. There are waves going in from time to time, but they're usually mild enough to swim with. When the waves are quite strong, locals and tourists bring out their surf boards and enjoy surfing on the waves. In fact, surfing is among of the best tourist things to dos in Lo De Marcos.

The lengthy shore is perfect for morning and afternoon stroll. The sand is whitish and soft, making the whole beach scene a glorious display. The north end of Lo De Marcos beach brags of a place of tropical birds, meanwhile schools of fish are almost at all times there on the south end.

The allure of the Mexican delicacies

Obviously, Lo De Marcos boasts itself on being a place of traditional Mexican specialties. Tacos, most popularly, are rich in Lo De Marcos. Actually, people find "taco trip" an exciting affair, which lets them to have a taste of diverse tacos sold in the place.

And as Lo De Marcos has a big supply of seafood, seafood specialties are always available on the table. There are also tasty pastry produce in the place, which are traditionally cooked in clay ovens.

But what's appealing is that Lo De Marcos also offers Western specialties to give their guests a bigger range of food choices. Burgers, for instance, are available in the place.

Perfect tranquility

What makes Lo De Marcos an appealing place is that it provides the kind of peaceful and invigorating living not available in urban, and even in rural, areas. The beach landscape, the traditional food, the accommodating and friendly natives, and the overall charm of Lo De Marcos make it a wonderful piece of Mexican gem—for Mexicans, retirees, and tourists.
